----- About the TPEA

The Technology, Pedagogy and Education Association (TPEA) is a membership association that informs policy and practice in education technology. Our unique contribution to this field comes from our members' research and expertise in teaching, initial teacher education and continuing professional development.

We are a UK registered charity that aims to advance education for the public benefit by:

- promoting research and effective practice in the use of digital technologies, particularly, but without limitation, in schools; and
- supporting initial and continuing teacher professional development, in particular in the field of the effective use of educational technologies.
